

Chapter Notes for Chapter 10: The Treasure House

“There is nothing but water at the holy bathing places; and I know that they are useless, for I have bathed in them.” Songs of Kabir, trans. Rabindranath Tagore (1977).

“All conditioned processes are transient, practise with diligence...”
Digha Nikaya, Mahaparinibbana Sutta (sutta 16), 6:7. [DN ii, 156].

Information on Sikhs and their religion came from booklets supplied by the Newcastle Sikh Gurdwara and Naipaul (1990).

References:

Tagore, Rabindrath, trans. Songs of Kabir. York Beach, Maine: Samuel Weiser, 1977.

Naipaul, V. S. India: A Thousand Mutinies Now. London: William Heineman, 1990.